

Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital of New York - Presbyterian

Since 2002, the Pediatric Spine Foundation has worked with hospitals around the country to accomplish our mission of helping children with spine problems to live longer, better lives. Through dedicated physicians and the enrollment of patients at each hospital we are able to lead the way in our research, education, and family support efforts.

Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital of New York - Presbyterian continues to contribute dynamic research in the development of clinical tools and processes, such as EOSQ, CEOS, and EOSRSS that can help make research and care of children with scoliosis better. As major members of the Pediatric Spine Study Group, Drs. Michael Vitale, Lisa Saiman, Benjamin Roye, David Roye, and Hiroko Matsumoto have contributed 3 presentations and 9 publications during 2020. They have been with us since the beginning of this registry and have enrolled 745 patients.
